6 things to look for in a good accountant

Accounting experience

Learning accounting from a classroom is not enough. Work experience, especially in dealing with clients and the minor details that can be learnt through work is even more important.

Notable past clients

Every good accounting firm has notable past clients. Would you trust an accounting firm that has only worked with a few small businesses, or an accounting firm that has worked with the likes of NUS (National University Singapore)?

CPA certified

CPA stands for certified practising accountant. The CPA is an accounting certification that every accountant in Singapore should have.

Industry knowledge

Accountants don't just need to know about finance and financial statements. A good accountant should be familiar with local industries (e.g. healthcare, law).

Patient and calm

Not all of us are accountants. We may ask dozens of questions when meeting with our accountant. Therefore, it is important to work with a calm and patient accountant.

Meticulous and careful

Being meticulous and careful is especially important in accounting when financial statements and tax returns have to be 100% accurate.
